President’s Message
Jim Craig, MIPRIMA President

On Wednesday, June 13, Michigan PRIMA will hold its annual golf outing at the Glen Oaks County Golf Course in Farmington Hills. This event for Michigan PRIMA members and supporters generates funds to support the educational mission of the organization including conferences, student scholarships, and support for professional training.

The annual Spring Conference was held in late March at Schoolcraft College. Informative presentations were made on timely topics relevant to the risk management professional. The morning sessions focused on the cyber risks faced by both individuals and organizations in the area of cyber crime. An FBI agent presentation focused on steps individuals can take to protect themselves and their organizations in the face of cyber threats.

Charlie Stevens, Michigan Municipal Risk Management Authority, presented an overview of the cyber coverage protections that his organization provides in the event of a cyber attack on a member organization. The cost of mitigating a loss and providing monitoring for affected individuals can be expensive.

Having enough funds to carry out projects or events is always a challenge in the public sector. Dawn Dayton, Dayton Consulting, presented ways to make funding efforts more effective in generating the resources to carry out initiatives. Her tips of planning the “ask”, being clear about the benefits and objectives of the project, and ways to find possible funding sources were informative on how to have a positive result for a fund-raising effort.

The afternoon sessions were focused on mental health issues in law enforcement and protecting youth from sexual abuse.

Washtenaw County Sheriff Jerry Clayton presented steps being taken in Washtenaw County to ensure that individuals with mental health issues do not become unnecessarily entangled in the criminal justice system. Sheriff Clayton’s enthusiasm and passion for his work and the benefits to the community of an enlightened law enforcement practice demonstrated the benefits to the community of a compassionate approach to mental health issues.

Elizabeth Smith, Washtenaw Child Advocacy Center, presented tips on how to develop and implement policies, practices, and procedures to prevent the sexual abuse of youth. The harm to a child, the damage to the reputation of the organization, and the loss of public trust have enormous negative impact that can be prevented by developing and enforcing organizational policies designed to protect youth.

In addition to the funding provided by the golf outing to support educational activities, the contributions of our corporate sponsors support the educational mission of Michigan PRIMA.

I look forward to seeing you on the course on June 13.

Legislative Committee Update
The views set forth below are those of the Committee Chairman, Michael Ellis, and do not necessarily reflect the view of MiPRIMA, or other Legislative Committee members.

Nassar Backlash
The public backlash against Larry Nassar and his crimes against young female gymnasts has manifest itself in new legislation that may reduce Governmental Immunity in certain circumstances. While this specific legislation is limited, the idea that the legislature’s response is to fiddle with the existing immunity is scary to those in Public Risk Management. Any attempt to shift the status quo may have unintended consequences once the new statute is fully litigated and pushed to its extreme limits which is always the eventual case with new law.

There is a “package” of Bills that are moving together and each Bill has a specific area of impact.

According to the official analysis, SB 877 would “specify that a governmental agency would not be immune from tort liability for sexual misconduct that a member, officer, employee, or agent of the governmental agency engaged in while employed by or acting on behalf of the agency if it were negligent in hiring, supervising, or training the individual, or if the agency knew or should have known of the sexual misconduct and failed to report it to a law enforcement agency.”

Thus, the agency would not be immune if it “should have known” of the sexual misconduct. It is one thing to say the agency should have known about a pothole that is in the middle of the street for everyone to see and another to say the agency should have known about sexual misconduct that by its very nature is carried out in secret. The most recent MiPRIMA seminar in March featured an excellent speaker, Elizabeth Smith from the Washtenaw Child Advocacy Center who explained how predators “groom” their victims and what to watch for. If you have staff or volunteers who work with children and missed this timely training, you will want to figure out what “grooming” looks like because under HB 877 it appears that you and your agency will be responsible for spotting this in the future.

Also, SB 876 appears to retroactively extend the reporting period for this type of case. It appears that this applies retroactively to January 1, 1997. Those concerned about Public Risk Management will want to read these bills and probably consult with their chosen counsel for full review of the implications. These bills can be found on line at the site HERE.

House Bill 5488: Legal Fees Incurred by Public Universities, Colleges and Community Colleges
House Bill 5488 was introduced on January 30, 2018 by State Rep. Jim Runestad, R-White Lake. The Bill would amend the State School Aid Act, using the legislature’s appropriations authority to require public universities, colleges, and community colleges that receive funding from the state school aid fund to annually report “all costs … in connection with any civil or criminal case, filed or anticipated” against the entity or any of its staff to the senate and house appropriations subcommittees on community colleges and the senate and house oversight committees. In addition to attorney fees and other costs, such as those incurred during MSU’s internal Nassar investigations, entities would also be required to report the amounts of court judgments or settlements against the school.

House Bill 5405: Settlement of Sexual Harassment Lawsuits
State Rep. Gary Glenn, R-Williams Township, introduced a bill on January 11, 2018, that would prohibit the use of taxpayer dollars to settle sexual harassment lawsuits against elected state officials. Specifically, the Bill proposes that: “A public entity shall not make an expenditure of public funds to settle a claim or action involving sexual harassment in which a public official is the alleged perpetrator or defendant.”

House Bill 5397: Settlements Involving Gross Negligence and Intentional Misconduct
On January 11, 2018, Representative Lucido introduced House Bill 5397, which is intended to prohibit the expenditure of state and local funds on the settlement of certain claims and actions or on certain judgments. The Bill would ban tax dollars from being used to settle lawsuits involving gross negligence, intentional misconduct, or criminal behavior by elected officials. Additionally, the Bill requires that, if a court finds that a public official was grossly negligent or engaged in intentional misconduct, or the public official is convicted of a crime, the public official shall, within 30 days after the finding or conviction becomes final, reimburse the public entity for any public funds that were expended in the defense of the public official.

Michigan Court of Appeals holds that ELCRA is available to Prisoners
The Appeals Court has held that prisoners have ELCRA protection and the previous exclusion of prisoners is invalid. The Detroit Free Press reports “In a 2-1 opinion, the court ruled that a 1999 amendment that excluded prisoners from coverage under the Elliott-Larsen Civil Rights Act is unconstitutional.” The full article can be read at HERE.

The case is Doe v Department of Corrections which makes it somewhat hard to find. The full decision can be read HERE.

The State will undoubtedly seek leave to appeal before the Michigan Supreme Court and Public Risk Managers would be well advised to follow this case.

Oxford comma suit settled
The rather famous case involving overtime for milk truck drivers, commonly called the Oxford Comma Lawsuit since it hinged on the use of a serial comma (referred to by grammarians as an Oxford comma) has been settled for $5 million dollars according to the ABA Journal. A lesson for those who do not think that proper punctuation is important. The full text of the article can be found HERE.

RBG Update - Ruth as a rock star
Those easily distracted by click bait will already know, but for the rest of our readers, a debate has developed about whether Ruth Bader Ginsburg should be treated like a rock star. Conservatives concede that they began the trend with their treatment of Antonin Scalia, but now that the shoe is on the other foot – the shoe seems too tight. More HERE.

RBG is not put off by the debate and seems to have fanned the flames by appearing on The Late Show with Stephen Colbert where she shared the secrets of her personal exercise program wearing a black “Super Diva” sweat shirt. The episode can be viewed at HERE. (after a commercial.)

RBG #MeToo
While on the topic of Ruth Bader Ginsburg and the US Supreme Court, according to an article in the ABA Journal, RBG was recently interviewed by NPR and had her own #MeToo story. The full article can be read HERE.

MCCA charges increased
Notices are out that the MCCA charges for this year have increased to $192. This is a 13% increase according to the Lansing State Journal. The complete article can be found HERE.

Opioid lawsuit by Michigan public entities
If you have missed the news, several Michigan communities have filed suit against opioid producers (Big Pharma) seeking damages to offset the public costs of treating the opioid epidemic. Several groups including the Government Law Section of the State Bar of Michigan have hosted E. Powell Miller, the lead attorney on this lawsuit as speaker, apparently seeking other communities to join in this suit. Whatever your position on this issue Public Risk Managers should have this issue on their radar.

English as “official” language?
House Bill 4053 was passed on Feb 22, 2018 by the Michigan House. This bill would make “English” the official language of the State of Michigan. The official analysis by the Senate Fiscal Agency (published on 3-21-18) states that “The bill would have no fiscal impact on State or local government.”

News coverage from last year when this bill was introduced may be found HERE.

It is unclear what impact this bill will have on the work of Public Risk Managers, but this bill just passed the House and seems on the way to the Senate. Since risk management is heavily dependent on forms and printed material this is a bill to watch and consider the possible consequence of passage.
